A School Boy's Letter.

John Quill gets off the following neat burlesque in the New York Sunday Dispatch:-

BIRCHTOWN ACADEMY, Sept. 20. Dear Pop. - I am getting along first rate at the school, and I like it very much, all except Whacks, the assistant-"Old Beeswax," we call him-and we are down on him like a pile driver, all us boys, for he's ignorant. Why, he's so ignorant he don't know a black-board from a dark night, no, he don't, and Bill Ferguson he put a torpedo under each leg of old Beesey's chair yesterday, and when he sat down (you see he sets down like he had ballast in him) why the torpedoes then exploded, and liked to blowed him through the roof. Golly, but wasn't he scared! He looked at the almanac to make sure it wasn't the Fourth of July, and then he came down, looking mad, and licked Bill like blazes. But Bill said he didn't carea cent, and the next time he would sprinkle gunpowder in his hair, and bust his old frontispiece off of him.

Dr. Georgies, he's a nice enough old feller, only he will sit and chew gum drops right before us boys, and never say "take some" once. He wears green specs, and Bill Ferguson he called him "old four eyes" one day, which the doctor he heard Bill say it, and he nailed him and dragged him up to the desk, and then he gave us a lecture, and said there was once a boy he knew, and he was about Bill's size. who insulted a grey-haired old man, and called him wicked names, and the next day-the very next morning—the boy's mother died of inflammatory rheumatism and his sister brokeout with bunions.

Bill, he cried, while the doctor held him by the shirt collar, but he winked at the boys as he came away, and wrote on a piece of paper, and threw it over to me that he thought the doctor was "a blower," and he daresent hit a boy of his size.

I want some new books very much, about ten of them, and they will cost eight dollars. -Please send the money for them. Don't send the books, for the doctor likes to buy them

I don't want any money for taffy or marbles, for I don't care about them; but be sure not to send anything but the money for the books. I am in good health. I was taken sick last week, and had a sore eye for a few days, but it is now well. We was playing mumbley peg out on the grass, and Bill Ferguson he grabbed my knife. told him he better give that knife up or I would tell you and get you to lick him when he came down, and he said he could lick you and a dozen like you, and then he dared me to knock a chip off his shoulder.

And Jack McGinnis he dashed me against him, and that knocked the chip off, and Bill he struck me over the nose three or four times, and said he'd "bust me on-the snout if I didn't dry up," for I couldn't help crying, and I was taken sick, and couldn't go to school at all that day. And the doctor he locked Bill up in the garret; but he didn't care, for he clumb out on the root, and was chasing around after tomcats, up and down, almost all the morning, and pulling plastering out of the chimney to throw at people in the street. Give my love to all at home, and don't forget the money for the books.

Bill is about fourteen; do you think he can lick you? Please send that money, and believe me your

M. R. WILKINS. affectionate son. P. S.—Don't forget to send the money for those books. VIRGINIA LANDS .- It is, perhaps, no exaggeration to say that one-half of our lands can be bought upon the most reasonable terms. The other half is probably under cultivation, but not more than half tilled. We have a population of a little over a million, when Twelve Packages, 9.00 there is ample room for from ten to fifteen millions. A New York journal, the Utica Her-ald, says: "Millions of rich acres, within two days' ride by steam," invite the unemployed working men of the North. It adds:

"There is always a large demand for the products which Virginia, and half a score of States besides, yield in abundance. Though this demand exists, the lands lie idle, and those who should till and possess them are suffering for the necessaries of life. The requirement is to bring the laborers to the land. To that end, information relative to desirable localities should be everywhere diffused and special aid given if necessary. It is certain that thousands of people are every month finding homes on our unoccupied territories. What thousands do, other thousands can as well perform. It labor were properly distributed, there need be not a case of want in the country.

There are numerous land agencies in the State, and some of them have manifested a most commendable degree of activity, and yet there seems to be some defect in the means they adopt to operate upon those desiring te settle among us. The defect manifestly exists in the failure to advertise to a sufficient extent. If they would succeed in effecting sales, these agencies must advertise more liberally. Our newspapers are doing all they can to help them, and in a great measure at their own expense. But they cannot afford to do everything without some return.—Rich. Whig.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impropriety.—Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreading who the consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The System becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indi-
